JOB DESCRIPTION, DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES:

The Nuclear Medical Science Officer is the principal operator of the Analytical Laboratory System, a crew-served mobile laboratory system used to analyze chemical, biological, radiological, and nuclear (CBRN) materials. Personnel will process and prepare samples for possible law enforcement evidence in the event of a criminal or terrorist incident. Duties include:

- Advise the Incident Commander on a variety of health related issues involving the affected population. Acts as a resource for the Incident Commander or other DoD response elements regarding the potential spread of causative agent(s) and potential effect on the population. Provides advice on methods to control the affected area and begin or cease quarantine procedures.
- Operate and maintain the Analytical Lab System. Conduct operator level maintenance, trouble shoot, operate and interpret results from all assigned analytical equipment and techniques, which include, but is not limited to:

Gas Chromatography/Mass Spectrometry
Fourier-Transform Infrared Spectroscopy
Polarized Light Microscopy
Polymerase Chain Reaction
Colorimetric Immunoassay
Ion Mobility Spectrometry
Electrochemiluminescence Immunoassay
Class III Glove Box

- Relay concerns about protection of food and water supplies and identify procedures to safeguard these resources. Advise the Incident Commander and healthcare workers, both at the scene and in health care facilities.
- Assimilate information collected by the reconnaissance team, and from other sources, and translate relevant data into meaningful information for the Incident Commander.
- Provide recommendations for down range analyses and collection of samples, based upon the reconnaissance team's findings.
- Analyze and characterize unknown samples of suspected CBRNE agents and substances present at an incident site.
- Effectively utilize reach back capability to share information with, and potentially send samples to, designated state and federal agencies for additional technical expertise and confirmatory analysis.
- Assess current and projected hazards to personnel, animals, and selected critical infrastructure that may result from exposure to identified CBRN threat agent(s).
- Participate in advanced planning, coordination, and training processes with potential supported or supporting local, state, and federal agencies, other WMD/CSTs and DoD response elements.
- Train CST members and first responders on scientific aspects of WMDs
- Act as a resource for additional reach back.
- Conduct liaison with outside agencies and organizations; presents unit capabilities briefings
- Perform other duties as assigned.

REQUIRED TRAINING: All WMD CST members will be required to complete the 8 week Civil Support Skills Course (CSSC). This course includes rigorous training in Hazardous Materials decontamination and detection/identification. Training is conducted while spending extended periods of time in Hazardous Material Level-A protective suites utilizing a self-contained breathing apparatus (SCBA). Additionally, this position requires approximately 500 hours of advanced individual training following the completion of CSSC and any required AFSC-specific training, to be completed within the first 12 months following position placement.
